2002 Large-Format Bookings Yearbook

Films and bookings of 2001

In 2001 bookings continued to shorten, theaters continued to show more films, and other trends noted in our previous Bookings Yearbooks continued more or less unabated. Thus, with respect to bookings patterns at least, the turmoil in the conventional cinema industry of the last 18 months, and the repercussions it has sent through the LF world (to say nothing of the effects of Sept. 11), seem to have had little effect. (The same cannot be said for attendance, which has fallen for the past two years, as we will discuss in a future article on the results of a recent LF Examiner survey.)

This is LFX's fourth annual examination of a year's bookings of LF films in theaters worldwide. Our extensive database of bookings information is collected directly from LF distributors every month and from theaters via yearly surveys. This year's report is based on 1,766 bookings of 111 films at 297 theaters that occurred during calendar 2001.

The average booking length in 2001 fell 6.6% from 2000's average: down to 197 days from 211 the year before. The table below outlines the trend of the past four years and the number of bookings we used to calculate the average. (See the note at the end for details about our statistical procedures.)

Bookings started in	Average length	% change	Number Counted
1997	301		287
1998	249	-17.3	443
1999	213	-14.5	508
2000	211	-0.9	671
2001	197	-6.6	885

Chart 1 illustrates the trend by tracking the numbers of bookings starting in each month of the past five years. Although seasonal variations confuse the issue somewhat, the general downward trend is clear.

The decline in average booking length reflects the expanding range of choices available to theaters and their changing booking practices. Those who have been in the business for more than ten years can remember when only one or two new films were released each year and when nearly every theater booked nearly every film, then showed that film — and only that film — for at least six months or a year. Newcomers to the giant-screen industry may have as hard a time imagining that world as today's teenagers would have in conceiving of life without the Internet.

The table below illustrates the growth of the active LF film inventory. Fifty-four new films have been released in the last five years, the same number that were released between 1970 and 1986. The table also illustrates the fact that, unlike the conventional industry, the arrival of new LF films does not necessarily push an equal number of old films out. This was especially true in the last two years, when 12 new films were released and only three or four left the marketplace.

2001	111	12

Concomitant with the shortening of bookings and the increase in programming choices is the increasing tendency of theaters to program multiple films simultaneously. LF theaters that showed more than one or two films at a time were once the exception. Now they are the rule. The average number of films per theater in the course of a year has jumped substantially since last year's Yearbook, which noted a slight decline compared to the previous year. The jump in 2001 to 5.8 films per theater represents an increase of nearly 20% over 2000's average, the biggest one-year jump since we started the Yearbook.

Average films per theater
1997	4.3
1998	4.9
1999	5.2
2000	4.9
2001	5.8

In 1999 12% of all theaters we tallied showed 10 or more films. That number dropped to 9% in 2000 (possibly affected by the exclusivity requirements of Fantasia/2000), but in 2001 it has soared to over 18%: 55 of the 296 theaters we counted showed at least 10 films last year. Table 1 shows the list of those theaters that ran at least five titles during 2001.

Films and distributors

Looking at the count of bookings for the year on page 24, we see that Mysteries of Egypt eked out a narrow 88–84 victory against Cyberworld, with T-Rex and Journey Into Amazing Caves following at 71 and 70 respectively, and a handful of others clustered around 60 bookings each. All-time leader Everest closes out the top ten with a respectable 43 bookings in its fourth year of release.

Table 2 gives a slightly different look at bookings of all films released since 1997, counting each theater only once and disregarding return engagements to the same theater, which are counted as separate bookings everywhere else in LFX. Recalling that as of Dec. 31, 2001 there were 350 LF theaters worldwide, Table 2 gives a rough indication of each film's market penetration. (Keep in mind that this list covers four years, not just 2001.)

Table 4 outlines the competition among LF distributors over the past four years. Imax Corporation remains the industry's dominant player in terms of bookings and films in distribution, with twice as many of each as its nearest competitor, MacGillivray Freeman Films. MacGillivray, in turn, enjoys roughly the same relationship to Destination Cinema, Inc., next in line. nWave Pictures, which released Haunted Castle in 2001, moved into fourth place, past Sony Pictures Classics, Large Format and the Houston Museum of Natural Science, neither of which released new titles last year.

Reporting grosses

The practice of reporting weekly box office grosses to film industry trade publications continued in 2001, with 21 films posting their receipts. The weekly world totals for 18 of them are posted on pages 6 and 7. (Three are omitted because they only reported for a few weeks in 2001.) We depict the performance of some of the films (including 2002's Beauty and the Beast) in Chart 2 on page 5.

We wish to highlight again the ambiguity inherent in LF box office figures. In the conventional film industry, grosses are collected directly from theaters for virtually all films by an independent organization, ACNeilsen/EDI, and thus they fairly represent the full spectrum of film performance.

LF films, however are self-selecting, and thus the grosses printed here and in other media outlets are not a random a representative sample of LF film performance. For the most part, LF distributors who report typically do so because they believe their films are doing well and feel that reporting will have a promotional benefit. Smaller distributors, or ones whose films are not living up to expectations, cannot afford or choose not to report. (A notable exception to this practice is Sony Pictures Classics, which has always reported on all its films.) Thus the LF films that appear in the lists are generally at the top end of the spectrum.

Another difference between conventional and LF reporting is that in the conventional cinema business, theaters return 50% or more of the box office to the distributor. In the LF world that figure is closer to 20% or less. Thus many outsiders have come into the business with unrealistic expectations of the financial viability of LF filmmaking.

Production explodes

In the last Yearbook we speculated that the financial woes of the LF industry might result in less production and fewer new releases. In fact, quite the opposite has happened: 2002 promises to be a record year for new films. At the moment we count 23 films expected to open in 2002.

Furthermore, the latest entries in the market have dramatically shortened production schedules, and are opening against projects that had been on the more usual 12–18-month timetables. Disney's Ultimate X will premiere in May, only nine months after shooting its first roll of film last August. The Young Black Stallion, shooting now, could accomplish that feat in six months, although its release date has not yet been announced.

Apollo 13: The IMAX Experience, which was on no one's radar screen until late March, is expected in theaters in August, four months from now.

Already some films (e.g. Top Speed, Manatee, and Voyage Into The Abyss) have been pushed back into 2003 to presumably less busy dates. However, if repurposing of 35mm films catches on and Imax achieves its stated goal of six converted Hollywood films a year, it could become harder for traditional LF films to find clear launch windows.

Thus the competition between films for screen time is becoming hotter than ever, and the LF industry – or at the very least, a portion of it – seems to be moving headlong toward the business model of conventional cinema: a large volume of new films, each with a working life of only a few months or weeks. If, as many hope, an influx of new commercial films leads to a new round of theater building and expanded audiences, the LF business could be heading for a new spurt of growth.

Such a trend could also speed up the split of the LF world into more distinct commercial and institutional sectors. In this scenario, some overlap would continue: commercial theaters would run school shows during the day and some museum theaters would play Hollywood films in the evenings. But filmmakers would tend to fall into one camp or the other and – assuming a larger market of both kinds of theater – would be under less pressure to make the elusive "crossover" hit, of which Everest, Fantasia/2000, and Mysteries of Egypt are the most successful examples.

Alternately, if the repurposing gambit is less successful, the industry could continue as it has for the past few years, a buyer's market with fierce competition among films. This could lead to a drop in production and some consolidation among smaller distributors. But, of course, that's what we predicted last year.

Note

The average booking lengths referred to in this article were calculated by combining contiguous listings (which are shown as separate entries in our regular bookings lists) and excluding from the count

- Bookings that started before the year being averaged;
- Films for which we did not have precise start and end dates;
- Film festival screenings;
- School bookings (films shown irregularly to school groups, but which are not on the regular public schedule);
- Certain destination films with extremely long runs at their home theaters;
- Bookings in theaters that opened after Jan. 1, 2001.

This left sets of 287 records for 1997, 443 records for 1998, 508 records for 1999, 401 records for 2000, and 805 records for 2001 from which we calculated the average booking lengths in days, based on the starting date of the booking.

Bookings: 2001 by Film

1,766 bookings of 110 films at 297 theaters

The data on the following pages are not warranted to be comprehensive or accurate in every detail, despite our best efforts to make them so. They have been compiled from surveys of LF theaters, distributors, the world wide web, and other sources.

We will make every effort to improve the thoroughness, accuracy, and usefulness of these data. If your theater or film is not shown here, please get in touch with us to update our listings.

Where a date is not shown, it means that no date was provided by the source or, in the case of a closing date, that no date has been set, or that the run is indefinite.

The key to film abbreviations is on page 20.
